a selection of favorite albergues

Albergues on the Camino Francés

'Ranking' albergues is different from ranking hotels. Ranking albergues has more to do with the spirit of the camino, hospitality, a family atmosphere, the possibility to hang out with other pilgrims, spirituality etc. and less with luxury and comfort.

When I made this selection of favorite albergues I realised of course that taste is very personal, bed bugs can also be found in very popular places and lots of people want to "go with the flow". But I also realised that when I did the camino I was ever so happy that a fellow pilgrim advised me to go to the albergue in Grañon for its special atmosphere or another pilgrim advised me to walk an extra 2 km past Carcabelos to find there a lovely little oasis in Pieros. Moreover I saw this item about "not to miss" albergues popping up frequently on the various forums associated with the Camino.

There are around 435 albergues along the camino. And the number is increasing every year. In this summary a selection has been made of the most favorite albergues, based on the reviews from previous year's pilgrims as well as on my own experience. These reviews were found on German, English, French, Dutch, Italian and Spanish websites and forums as well as in guides such as 'the CaminoGuide.net', 'das gelbe Heft' from the Jakobsfreunde Paderborn and 'The Camino Francés' from the Confraternity of St. James.

There are four different types of albergues:

Municipal albergues are sponsored by local government bodies and often staffed by volunteers. In general they belong to the most inexpensive albergues. They can be rather basic.

Parochial albergues are operated by religious institutions such as monasteries, convents or local churches. They tend to be simple, but may offer a lot of care by volunteer caretakers. Many of these accommodations are on a donation basis (donativo) or for a low fixed price.

Association albergues are operated by various pilgrim associations from around the world. They are often staffed by volunteers who have done the Camino before. Association albergues are supplemented by donations, so are often offered on a donation basis or a low fee.

Private albergues are owned and run by private individuals. Private albergues often offer more comfortable accommodations with "extra" amenities such as meals, wash/dryer, internet, wifi, etc. Some private albergues are owned by former pilgrims and have a cozy feel, others have more of an impersonal hotel feel.

In the list of albergues the following rating is used:

recommended

If one or more of the shells has an orange background  it means that the ranking has been awarded because the albergue involved has something "extra" in terms of hospitality, (camino) atmosphere, rituals etc.

This is the fourth edition. If you have any remarks or suggestions I'll be happy to hear them. Please send me a note by email atilburg1@chello.nl so I can use your information for a next edition.

My special thanks for all the people who took the trouble to send their remarks and input which I could use for this little booklet and my special thanks to the webmaster of www.gronze.com who allowed me to use the maps of his excellent site for this 2016 edition.

Not in an albergue but my favorite places to stay in Santiago:

Hospedería San Martín Pinarío

It is an antique monastery in the old city next to the cathedral. The building has a wonderful history and a great atmosphere. Rooms are basic but clean and comfortable. A fine place to finish your camino.

Hotel Costa Vella

One of the properties of Fina Castro Riveiro

Plaza de Pescadería Vella, nr. 2-1 €15,- ☎ 652 812 389

It is a very good price for a central, well maintained and clean apartment. Fina is a fine lady and she will do anything to make your stay comfortable.
